Megaprojects: What Works, What Fails and What's Next

15 September 2026, 5.00 – 7.30pm (Singapore time, GMT+8)
Meeting Room, Level 3, West Tower Marina One, 9 Straits View, Singapore 018937

About this Seminar

Megaprojects today are no longer defined solely by their scale or value, but by the increasing complexity of their delivery environments. From evolving regulatory expectations and compressed delivery timelines to supply chain disruption, stakeholder pressures and shifting commercial realities, project teams are operating in conditions that are becoming progressively more uncertain and challenging.

The seminar brings together an all-ladies panel comprising an architect, an engineer, a quantity surveyor and a construction lawyer. Drawing on their diverse professional perspectives, the panel will explore key challenges arising from megaproject delivery, the lessons learnt from major projects and how legal frameworks interact with the broader technical, commercial and risk management aspects of complex projects.

The panel will also discuss how industry and contractual practices may need to evolve to better manage risk, improve project delivery and achieve more effective project outcomes.

About the Speakers

Ms Laura Chang - Associate Director, Legal and Compliance in the Changi Airport Group (Singapore) Pte Ltd

Ms Laura Chang is an Associate Director, Legal and Compliance in the Changi Airport Group (Singapore) Pte Ltd. She has 18 years of experience specialising in the construction and energy sector, with a focus on dispute resolution work, 17 of which were spent in private practice before recently transitioning in-house. She has advised and acted for numerous stakeholders across a broad spectrum of local and international large and complex, state-of-the-art infrastructure projects, bringing both advisory and contentious expertise to address and resolve complex, high-value claims and disputes.

A member of the inaugural batch of Accredited Specialists in Building and Construction Law in Singapore, Laura brings to this session a practitioner's lens on what makes megastructures succeed or falter and the lessons that we can learn for the future.

Ms Hong Fenglin – Director, SAA Architects Pte Ltd

Ms Hong Fenglin is a Registered Architect and Director at SAA Architects, with 20 years of experience in complex, large-scale infrastructure projects. She works at the intersection of design, regulation and delivery, with a focus on resolving high-impact constraints in demanding project environments.

She advocates for a shift from fragmented, risk-shifting models towards more collaborative, risk-sharing approaches-grounded in real project constraints and focused on delivering buildable, accountable outcomes.

Er Jee Yi Yng - Managing Director, Singapore; Senior Vice President, Southeast Asia, AECOM

Er Jee Yi Yng (YY) is AECOM's Managing Director for Singapore and Senior Vice President for Southeast Asia. She leads multidisciplinary teams across the region, driving strategic growth and delivering innovative solutions in transportation, buildings, water, environment, energy, and cost management. A registered Professional Engineer in Singapore with over 20 years of experience, YY specialises in planning, design, project management, and supervision of large-scale infrastructure projects. Her expertise spans underground works, including deep excavations, advanced foundations, tunneling, and land reclamation.

Beyond technical leadership, YY actively engages with industry associations to promote professional development for engineers and to enable greater knowledge exchange between industry stakeholders.

Sr Natalie Yong – Managing Director, LCH Quantity Surveying Pte Ltd; 1st Vice President, Singapore Institute of Surveyors and Valuers

With over 20 years of international experience across Germany, the UK, and the US, Sr Natalie Yong brings a global perspective and strong commercial acumen to the Quantity Surveying profession. She leads LCH Quantity Surveying Pte Ltd, one of Singapore's few independent consultancies, expanding its reach to South Korea and Timor Leste and spearheading the 2022 acquisition of JIA Quantity Surveyors and Project Management.

Natalie views the role of a Quantity Surveyor as extending beyond measurement and contracts, championing negotiation, fairness, and commercial problem-solving. She has led expert witness teams in litigation and is an accredited mediator with the Royal Institution of Chartered Surveyors (RICS). In 2025, she was named AWiCS–SISV Woman Quantity Surveyor of the Year. A Fellow of the Singapore Institute of Surveyors and Valuers, she currently serves as 1st Vice President of the Council, chairing both the CPD and Outreach Committees while advancing the profession and mentoring its practitioners.

About the Chairperson

Ms Ellen Alexandra Wong - Director, HKA, Singapore; Council Member, Association of Women in Construction (Singapore)

Ms Ellen Alexandra Wong is a construction disputes specialist and Fellow of the Chartered Institute of Arbitrators. She has worked across major civil, structural, and infrastructure projects - transport systems, underground utilities, geotechnical works, power stations, and wastewater facilities.

She has served as lead assistant to appointed delay experts on large-scale power plant and infrastructure disputes in the Middle East, working closely with legal teams and counsel across the full span of arbitration proceedings. That experience - sitting alongside the expert, shaping the analysis, preparing for cross-examination - gave her a particular understanding of how expert evidence is built and tested.

Ellen has since been appointed as delay expert on domestic commercial, residential, and industrial matters. Her earlier project delivery background informs how she reads site records and interrogates programme data — and shapes the rigour she applies to opinions that will face scrutiny.
